

Fight Developing To Continue Test Case on Slot Act

BOISE, Jan. 30 (UP)—A fight for continued appeal of the Scott L. Smith slot machine test case developed today after disclosure that Smith had paid the fine to satisfy a conviction from which he had first appealed to the supreme court.

Though payment of the fine endangers continuation of the appeal and determination of validity of the 1947 slot machine act, Atty.-Gen. Robert E. Smylie asked the supreme court to retain jurisdiction in the appeal. Smylie said he desired the court to settle the issue of constitutionality of the 1947 slot machine law.

Smith appealed to the supreme court from a third district court judgment assessing a $200 fine against him for operating a slot machine without a license. Smith in the appeal held that the slot machine law was unconstitutional. The case was the first to reach the supreme court to test the constitutionality of the law.

Finé Paid Jan. 5. Then it developed that last Jan. 5, Smith paid the fine in Owyhee county district court.

In a statement of "factual status" filed with the supreme court today, Smith's attorney, James H. Hawley, said the fine was paid without knowledge and "that he took this step in the hope of freeing him from local criticism."

Hawley added that it was Smith's "personal desire to have the appeal continued."

Wrote to Court. In a letter to the court, Smylie said:

"We take the position that in view of the questions of public interest involved in this proceeding, evidenced by the petition of the 12 municipalities who sought review of this case to be heard here as friends of the court, that the court is at liberty to retain jurisdiction of this appeal and to dispose of it on the merits."

Smylie added that he had informed Smith's counsel that he (Smylie) did not desire to "more this case to the court to decide this case to dismiss this appeal."

Grain Control Demand Puts GOP in Vise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (UP)—President Truman today demanded that congressional Republicans on a political hot spot.

Some GOP members admitted privately that Mr. Truman has used his own anti-inflation law to maneuver them into a squeeze between the drys and the wets.

Flight Explained. Their flight is explained in Kentucky, thick with distillers, is a doubtful state in this year's presidential election. The wet-Kentuckians, for instance, have a lot of drys who don't think grain ought to go into whiskey at any time.

The anti-inflation law passed at the 1947 special session gave the President power to parcel out grain for distilling until Jan. 31—tomorrow.

The senate voted to extend this power to Feb. 29. But the house banking committee killed that bill Monday.

Volunteers Pay Oats. Under the anti-inflation law the distillers could still get together with the agriculture department and agree to cut their use of grain. They could agree how to split up what they can find.

But President Truman told congress yesterday this provision of the law has lapsed. Hence he asked congress to extend his grain rationing authority until Oct. 31.

Otherwise the distillers will be rationed after tomorrow, to go into the market and buy what grains they can find.

The President said the distillers shouldn't be allowed to do that. Control is needed, he said, so that at least 600,000 bushels of wheat from the new crop may be exported to help feed Europe.

Students Get Safety Talks For Auto Use

As part of the local Safety Council's program for traffic safety, more than 1,600 Junior and senior high school students met with Edith N. Beck, secretary of the Idaho safety council, Friday morning in the Idaho and Orem theaters.

Beck outlined the students' responsibilities in keeping streets and highways safe. She told the groups they must drive in the right way, not one on one on the road is endangered.

One of the best groups of drivers in the country are the young people between 16 and 21 years of age. This group must have a thorough respect for traffic regulations, they must drive in the right way, not one on one on the road is endangered.

Beck said 189 persons were killed by traffic accidents in Idaho. In 1946, 213 were killed in the same manner. We must stop the needless waste of life. With reckless driving on the highways of Idaho, we never know who will be next. It might be you or me," Beck concluded.

In addition to the talk by Beck, a traffic safety movie, "Devil on Wheels," was shown to the students. Employees of both theaters donated their services for the program.

The radio said the Soviets also sent the note to the French government "with a request to make its contents known to the allied and associated powers which signed the peace treaty with Italy."

It was the second such protest this week. Yesterday Russia complained to the U. S. and Britain over the proposed reopening of the Suez Canal to Italian ships. This protest also charged violation of the Italian treaty.
